RALEIGH

●

The City of Raleigh, capital of North Carolina, known as the City of Oaks, has the unique distinction, among the forty-eight capitals, of having been planned and established on land bought by the State as a location for its seat of government.

Raleigh possesses numerous advantages which prove attractive to new residents and visitors. Its climate, educational advantages, business opportunities and cultural attainment have long attracted worthwhile people and enterprises to locate in Raleigh, but more important than any of these in its appeal to the visitor and new resident is the hospitality of its people and their desire that all who come to Raleigh shall feel at home and find their stay here pleasant.

Raleigh has sixty-eight churches, representing eighteen denominations.

EDUCATION—Raleigh, with six institutions for higher learning is the educational center of the State, two of which are for Negroes, Shaw University and Saint Augustine. The combined enrollment of all the institutions during peacetime is approximately 4,700 students. There are five public schools for Negroes.

HOSPITALS—There are two first-class Negro hospitals, Saint Agnes and McCauley's with accommodations for 110 patients.

POINTS OF INTEREST—The Capitol, Hall of History (State Historical Museum), The State Museum, Christ Church and Rectory, Governor's Mansion, Birthplace of President Andrew Johnson, State Art Galleries and Chavis Park. This park is named for the famous Negro educator.

Come to Raleigh you can't afford to miss it.
